

Celebrating Martin Luther King Jr. Day with Ron Paul

Monday is Martin Luther King Jr. Day, which has been observed since 1986. But in Arizona and New Hampshire, it is known as Martin Luther King Jr. Civil Rights Day.

Hey, you know who says he likes civil rights? Republican presidential candidate, Texas representative and vagina doctor, Ron Paul!

Why, you bet he does! Just look at all the great things Ron Paul has written about America's civil rights leader.

King, the FBI files show, was not only a world-class adulterer, he also seduced underage girls and boys. The Rev. Ralph David Abernathy revealed before his death that King had made a pass at him many years before.

And we are supposed to honor this "Christian minister" and lying socialist satyr with a holiday that puts him on a par with George Washington?

Hey, check out this little number from a Dec. 1990 Ron Paul news letter. Paul obviously thinks that MLK is so progressive that he supported gay rights issues long before the rise of the gay rights movement And by satyr, Paul must mean that MLK was a rare creature of peace and rights during a tumultuous time in U.S. history.

Martin Luther King: Socialist

St. Martin was a world-class philanderer who beat up his paramours ("non-violence" didn't apply in all spheres, I guess). He was a flagrant plagiarist with a phony doctorate. He replaced forced segregation in a few states with forced integration in all states. And he was a dedicated socialist. What a guy. He probably deserves two holidays.

Look at this Jan. '91 newsletter: "what a guy." Ron Paul loves MLK! Paul even thinks that he deserves two holidays. Truly, Paul recognizes the meanings of freedom and equality in America.

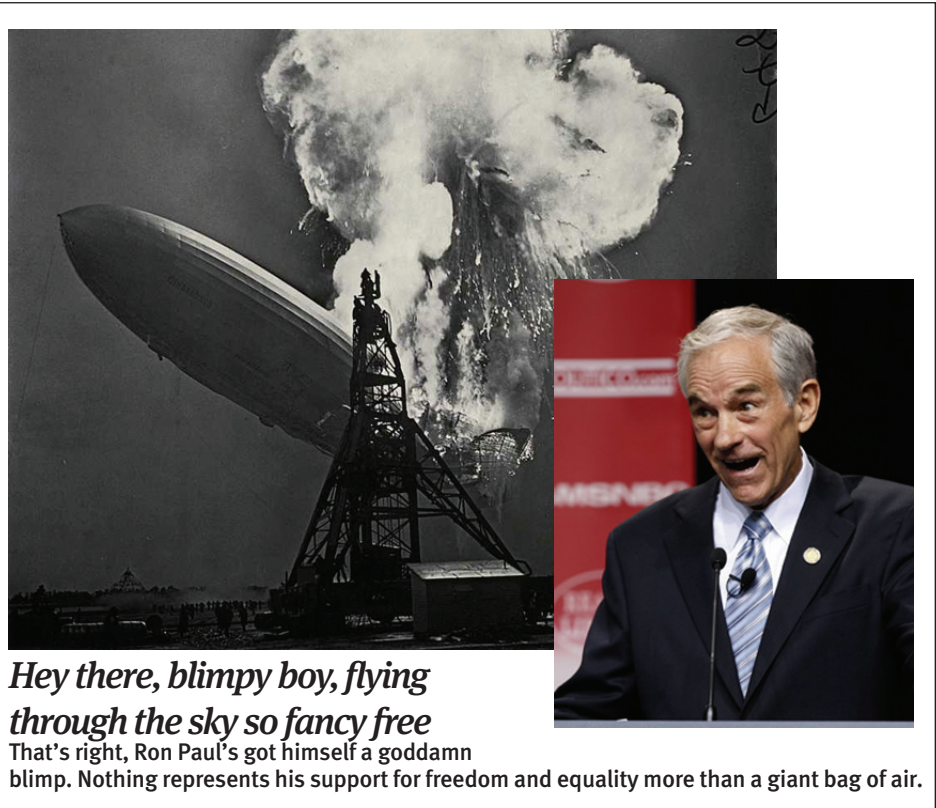

While Rowan was head of the U.S. Information Agency under LBJ, he found out about the FBI bugging of King's multifarious sexual activities. Documented on tape: a sexual relationship between King and his fellow Christian minister, Ralph David Abernathy. See the Rowan book for the exact words, which I cannot bring myself to quote. Am I glad I voted in Congress against an expensive federal holiday for this man.

And check out this Feb. '91 newsletter. Oops, I guess Paul didn't learn grammar at doctor school, he forgot the question mark at the end of the last sentence. It is actually a rhetorical question to which the answer is no. Oh silly Ron Paul.

Given Ron Paul's never-ending support for Martin Luther King, Jr, it is no surprise that Ron Paul supporters are trying to hold another money-bomb fundraiser on MLK day. After all, what better way to commemorate the memory of King and everything he worked for than by electing Ron Paul.

And make sure to support the effort to bring Ron Paul to speak at Rice on Jan. 26. Don't forget to tell Ron Paul supporters on campus just how much you love Ron Paul and everything he supports.

Thanks to The New Republic for publishing Ron Paul's freedom-loving letters.

Hey there, blimpy boy, flying through the sky so fancy free
That's right, Ron Paul's got himself a goddamn blimp. Nothing represents his support for freedom and equality more than a giant bag of air.

Blast 'Em?

If you live in a major city, you've probably already heard about the newest threat to your life and limb, and your family: carjacking.

It is the hip-hop thing to do among the urban youth who play unsuspecting whites like pianos. The youth simply walk up to a car they like, pull a gun, tell the family to get out, steal their jewelry and wallets, and take the car to wreck. Such actions have ballooned in the recent months.

In the old days, average people could avoid such youth by staying out of bad neighborhoods. Empowered by media, police, and political complicity, however, the youth now roam everywhere looking for cars to steal and people to rob.

What can you do? More and more Americans are carrying a gun in the car. An ex-cop I know advises that if you have to use a gun on a youth, you should leave the scene immediately, disposing of the wiped-off gun as soon as possible. Such a gun cannot, of course, be registered to you, but one bought privately (through the classifieds, for example).

I frankly don't know what to make of such advice, but even in my little town of Lake Jackson, Texas, I've urged everyone in my family to know how to use a gun in self-defense. For the animals are coming.

And check out Ron Paul's concern for urban issues in this Oct '92 edition of Ron Paul's Political Report. He is warning families about crazy ex-cops who think that people are animals to be hunted. Thank you Ron Paul.
